Sacrococcygeal fistula (pilonidal sinus)

Sacrococcygeal fistulas (pilonidal sinuses) are formed by hair poking into the skin causing an inflammation. Ultimately, only an operation to fully remove all fistulas can clear the inflammation. A faster healing process can be achieved if the operation is followed by plastic surgery (the ?Limberg? method).